By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (INS)-People . . . places . . . things . . . Douglas McKay quit the Eisenhower cabinet to try to pry Wayne Morse out of the U.S. Senate. Their race to represent Oregon in the upper house has overshadowed all else in Oregon. Morse, bitterly articulate foe of the President, has taken the lead as the big day nears, according to most pollsters. One McKay supporter grumbles that his man can blame nobody but aimself if he loses.

'We got Dick Nixon out to help him at a rally at the university,' he recalled. "Dick gave a lofty speech that pleased the audience very much. But our man, when called on, just said, "It isn't issues that count, it's votes'."

J. Edgar Hoover has joined the growing list of thoughtful persons who consider the delinquent parent as much at fault as the delinquent juvenile. In the October Rotarian magazine the director of the FBI writes these forbidding words:

"The abdication of parental responsibility is resulting in the tragic anarchy of juvenile delinquency . . . Criminals are not born with the stamp of criminality affixed to them. They are created by the forces and influences surrounding them.

"Certainly parental influence is a vital element in determining the direction in which a child will go-whether toward stable. responsible adulthood or through the series of delinquencies which lead to a life of crime."

Hoover presents some numbing statistics: Last year 2,262,450 major offenses were committed by the nation's crime army. A little over 42 per cent of these crimes were committed by children under 18 ,and nearly half of these were under 15! Kids under 18 accounted for 21.4 per cent of the robbery arrests, 46.9 per cent of the larceny arrests, 56.7 per cent of the burglary arrests and 62.2 per cent of the arrests for stolen cars.

"I am convinced that the vast majority of causes of juvenile delinquency are to be found within the realm of parental control and that indifference is at the root of the failure to exercise that control." Hoover concludes. "I believe that if parents could in some manner be shocked into a realization of their full responsibility for making decent citi zens of their children, we should see an abatement in the tide of delinquency. Those parents who willfully neglect or otherwise their children, in effect, abdicate their parental responsibilities. They certainly should be held accountable for the criminal acts of their children.'

The plot? Easy. In 1916 Lt. Eisenhower, fresh out of West Point, read the riot act to Pvt. Clatterbuck and put him to work peeling a mountain of potatoes. Pvt. As we may have mentioned before, you know you're getting closer to New York while driving when the guys in the toll road booths stop thanking you after shaking you down. This is especially true riding into New York over the magnificent new Garden State Parkway of New Jersey and that state's older and more bustling T Turnpike. The toll-takers give you a cheerful and sometimes almost grateful "thank you!" as they collect your quarters on the Parkway. On the Turnpike they occasion ally grunt. By the time you get to the entrance to the tunnels, all you get is a glare for your

One big manufacturer located his multi-million dollar plant in Jersey recently because, as he explained later, he was grateful for the fact that the money changers along the Parkway thanked him.

The Parkway booths are wired, by the way. Or "bugged." Highway headquarters can tune in from time to time to check on the "thank you" chorus. But be that as it may, the guys seem to get as much of a kick out of being courteous as do the beneficiaries of that little decency.

and troops were withdrawn 10 miles from the Suez Canal within 12 hours, the British and French · would occupy key positions along the waterway. Later it was announced that "token troops would be sent into the canal zone even if the ultimatum is obeyed.

The State Department appeared stunned by word of the ultimatum. Eden and Mollet evidently had not consulted Secretary of State Dulles or President Eisenhower. As one official said, "they probably didn't consult us because they were afraid we would do our best to talk them out of it."

In the afternoon Dulles called in British and French diplomats and reportedly objected strongly to the planned troop moves.

Eisenhower followed this up with a personal appeal to Eden and Mollet for settlement of the situation by "peaceful means."

The fact is that Britain and France once more appeared intent on following the policy which Eisenhower and Dulles have blocked several times since the Suez Canal crisis arose last July 26. They have never given up the motion that the way to deal with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser is to get tough and stay

The contrast of the Western powers thus marching off in separate directions while the United States and Russia for once pulled together in the U. N. Security Council created such a spectacle as has seldom been witnessed.

The United States was as preoccupied with trying to bring the fighting under control as Britain and France were with finally taking military action in the Suez Canal area after three months of being frustrated by Dulles. State Department officials sug-

The British and French apparently have made a different estimate of the consequences of action. The result has been to divide the Western powers as they have never been divided before.

AVAILABLE TODAY IN THIS AREA*

NOT TWO GASOLINES - BUT THREE . . . WITH THE RIGHT TYPE FUEL FOR EVERY CAR

1. ESSO for the millions of motorists who want a fine gasoline at "regular" price . . . the most popular gasoline sold in the area served by Esso Dealers.

Capr. 1956, Esso inc.

2. ESSO EXTRA Gasoline now enriched with Vitane® -designed for those who prefer the outstanding performance that only a premium gasoline delivers.

3. New GOLDEN ESSO EXTRA - an entirely new gasoline to power the growing number of high-compression cars which cannot deliver full performance with any gasoline available in this area today. More costly to make-does more for you.

Choose the fuel you need without paying a penny for quality you can't use.

for Happy Motoring!

Because thousands of cars demanded it... Esso Research brings you the first gasoline specifically designed to make the most of today's new, highercompression engines. It is the world's finest gasoline for any car...literally the power fuel that skipped the years.

Engine compression ratios have increased so rapidly in today's automobiles that up to now no fuel available in this area could get top power out of these higher-compression engines. Because of this need, Esso Research created new Golden Esso Extra four full years ahead of schedule. Scientifically designed and balanced to provide full power - top mileage - and long life for even the most advanced engine designs. So powerful that drivers who tried it in advance tests reported an immediate improvement in performance.

Of course, many cars will continue to give fine performance on Esso and Esso Extra.

But we think most motorists will want to find out for themselves how much they gain in performance, acceleration, and power by switching to this new gasoline. We make this

Try a full tank of Golden Esso Extra. Then decide whether the improved performance is worth the small extra cost to you. One of our three brilliant gasolines is bound to be exactly right for your car and your gasoline dollar, and Esso Standard believes that no motorist should pay for another's power needs. Only you can tell whether it's Esso, Esso Extra, or Golden Esso Extra for your car!

Drive in today. Now three brilliant gasolines to choose from -

No one gasoline can economically satisfy the widening power needs of today's cars. No two gasolines can give every motorist full value for his gasoline dollar. Now THREE gasolines, one of which will give your car the right fuel...at the most economical price!

Human "Guinea Pig" Becomes Nobel Hero

Young Dr. Werner Forssmann made an incision in his own right arm and pushed a catheter tube into a vein. Working carefully, he slid the tube up the broadening vein, watching its progress in a mirror reflecting a fluoroscope behind him. Finally he saw the tube snake into the right ventricle of his own heart.

This was in 1929, and Dr. Forssmann was only 25. His colleagues considered him a medical crackpot and eventually persuaded him to drop this line of research. But he had started something. Last week, a 52-year-old general practitioner in West Germany, he was surprised to learn that he was one of three men to share the Nobel Prize for Medicine and Physiology.

With Drs. Richards and Cournand, Columbia University medical professors, he is credited with providing a new technique of cardiology. Their discoveries with respect to heart catheterization and pathological changes in the circulatory system now permit deterioration to be halted through earlier and more certain diagnosis.

But it was Dr. Forssmann who opened a door -and incidentally wrote a new chapter in the long history of medical heroism. There is a limit to what can be learned by experimenting on guinea pigs. Sooner or later experiments must be transferred to a human being. The young German doctor used himself for a guinea pig nine times before he was persuaded to stop taking such risks.

The New York doctors picked up Dr. Forssmann's clue in the 30s . They were able to attach gauges to their tubes to map the pressures at various points. They pushed their catheters not only into the heart but out the other sideinto the pulmonary artery and the lungs them-

Since the three nave answered no $64,000 question, they have to be satisfied with the more modest award of $12,861 each. The basic research is not a neat answer to anything, but only a few building stones in the growing structure of cardiac knowledge. Other men, finding applications or performing operations that would have been impossible without their work, may be rewarded with more fame or more money.

Hungary And Food

Revolutions usually explode spontaneously, although they are planned for decades. It is often so that the planners have little to do with the actual uprising and sometimes, they are able to take hold of the situation and ofttimes, it gets beyond them with an amazing rapidity. The Russian Revolution of 1917 started as a palace revolt of a pro-Ally group, but the Bolsheviks seized it after nearly eight months and then they reaped all the fruits of the Revolution. Lack of food is one of the most usual causes for the discontent of a people. The Hungarians are a wheat-meat eating nation, accustomed to good cooking and a plentiful supply.

In April 1952, the Moscow Economic Conference was called by the World Peace Council, a Communist group, with the object of improving the trade of Communist countries. The Hungarian delegation to this conference stated that beginning with 1953, Hungary would be able to export 300,000 tons of grain a year to Western countries. This represented about half of Hungary's pre-World War II grain exports.

However, by the end of 1952, the Hungarian government had to admit that the crops had fallen short of the planned targets. Food exports were slashed, but that did not eliminate the food shortage within Hungary, which once had been regarded as the "bread basket" of Europe. While subsequent harvests were somewhat better, this year, Hungary was forced to buy grain in Canada. Weather did its part, but also bad management of the collective farms and lack of fertilizer played a considerable role in producing an inadequate productivity. A free people does not function competently under a collective system. At least two generations have to be killed to make a go of collectivism.

A people may be willing to suffer austerity for their own nation, but surely not for an alien conqueror. And the Russians are aliens, so far as the Hungarians are concerned. Centuries ago, when the Magyars settled in their Danubian land, they separated the East Slavs from the West Slavs, the North Slavs from the South Slavs.

Then they were required by the course of events to decide whether they would choose the Orthodox Church of the East or the Roman Catholic Church of the West. They chose Rome, largely because they feared the East. Although Hungary and Poland have been related and even at one time united by marriage, there is no record from the beginning of the Magyar invasion of Europe until the Communist conquest of their country by Stalin of the Hungarians ever turning eastward for their culture, their religion or any other phase of their lives. For Hungary culturally associated itself with Western Europe. It is therefore not astonishing that the Hungarian revolt should be so violent and so positively anti-Russia.

Poland, on the other hand, includes numerous Russian elements, remnants not only of czarist days when Poland was a part of the Russian Empire, but also from earlier times when Poland ruled over parts of what is now Russia. Also the languages of Russia and Poland are cognate, in the Slavic group. While the Poles are Roman Catholic, some of the related peoples In the borders are Orthodox as are still many of the inhabitants of Russia. Polish intellectuals, while nationalistic, have a history of association with Russian revolutionists in the czarist days, and many of them have long been Marxists. I make this point only to emphasize one difference between Hungary and Poland in the present situation.

However, Poland has also suffered from unsatisfactory crops and also from excessive withdrawals of manufactured goods from Poland to Russia. As a matter of fact, Poland, to avoid the effects of cyclical tendencies in the West to which Poland exported coal, accepted a doctrine of concentrating exports to Soviet Russia and the satellites. Poland has been the biggest foreign exchange earner in the Soviet bloc because of her coal exports. To this country, Poland also exports ham, although there is no shortage of home-grown pigs in the United States.

Ike's Re-Election Will Be Influence For Peace

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON - These are dangerous times in the world. Little wars can break out almost any time. This could mean involvement of America either through United Nations action, as in Korea, or through the provisions of the various alliances which this country has signed and must honor. Under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, for example, an attack on any one of the other 14 member countries must be considered just the same as an attack on the United

Not only must there be military readiness, therefore, on the part of the United States but diplomacy must make clear constantly the intention of the United States to fulfill its obligations.

Ike Has Experience

American diplomacy, unfortunately, failed to make crystal clear in January 1950 that the United States would fight to defend Korea, and that country was invaded by the Communists six months later.

Today, with the unsettled situations in Eastern Europe and in the Middle East, it is generally agreed the American people need at the helm a calm and courageous leader. They must elect next week the man who will serve as commander-in-chief of the Army, the Navy and the Air Force-the biggest military establishment we have ever had in time of peace.

Which of the two presidential candidates has the judgment and the experience to command such a tremendous organization? It is easy enough to say that any president can appoint generals or military advisers and rely on them. But the power of decision, when differing viewpoints are presented, must reside in the president. He cannot delegate that responsibility.

The American people have the obligation to decide whether to president who must necessarily depend on the advice and judgment of others without bringing to the job any personal knowledge or experience with military

In the 1952 presidential campaign, the Korean War issue was due as much to the resentment of many of the 15,000,000 reservists that they might be called into service again as it was due to the feelings of the families and relatives of the more than 125,000 American casualties. Reckless promises now to stop training of younger men by the draft-if fulfilled by a misguided president-could mean that the reservists might be called back

Defeat of Mr. Eisenhower could be interpreted abroad as a sign of weakness and uncertainty of purpose in America. Re-election of the President would be taken to mean that firmness and continued military strength-the best deterrent of war-had been reinforced by a vote of the American people. It's an overriding question - more important than the petty squabbles of domestic affairs-because it can in the next four years affect the survival of the nation itself. Which commander-in-chief? That's the really big issue in the election.

Removal of the gall bladder is not always followed by complete relief of symptoms. When distress recurs after surgery, the victim is disappointed and feels he has been subjected to unnecessary risk and expense. This rarely, if ever, occurs when stones are present and there is no doubt that abdominal pain came from the diseased organ.

Many physicians have made the remark that the worse the gall bladder, the better the end results. On the other hand, there is a 65 per cent chance that the original symptoms will recur when the operation is performed der complaints. This is more likely to happen when the X-ray find-

Many of these patients have been bothered for some time and obtained little or no relief from medications and a fat-free diet. Gall bladder trouble is suspected but not proved. Operation is recommended as a last resort. The procedure is relatively safe but the surgeon has his fingers crossed and makes no promises.

Why does upper abdominal dis-for the relief of vague gall blad- tress return even though the organ is removed? In some instances, the original pain stemmed from a neighboring structure. This is not surprising since gall bladder discomfort can be mimicked by spastic bowel, heart trouble, peptic ulcer, diverticulitis, gastritis, pancreatitis, arthritis of the spine, and diaphragmatic hernia.

> It is understandable that operation will have no effect in the circumstances. The exception is when mild inflammation of the gall bladder is aggravating the heart. The gall bladder is more likely to be held responsible for abdominal pain when X-rays show the existence of stones but these rocks are so common, many persons reach their deathbed without an iota of distress from the stones.

> A more logical reason for not obtaining relief after surgical removal of the organ is that the entire billary tract is involved, including the bile ducts, liver, and gall bladder. Obviously, taking out one part will not cure the whole tract. The gall bladder plays only a minor role in this system. Its function is to concentrate and store bile.

> Two other possibilities for recurring pain after gall bladder surgery ought to be mentioned. Now and then small stones escape from the gall bladder and remain hidden elsewhere in the biliary tract until the operation is over. Adhesions is still another explanation for continued dis-

Strauss, the first U.S. housing administrator, to the border of Jordan. The airport near Tel Aviv is only two and a half miles from the border, while Jordan comes within 10 yards of the Sea of Galilee.

Thus, in every direction Israel faces, except toward the Mediterranean, she is surrounded by Arab neighbors.

This came about because in their Palestine Mandate under the League of Nations, the Arab countries decided to move in and so confident that some wealthier Arabs left their homes with all their clothes behind figuring they would be back in a few days MIGs which could reach Tel Aviv after the Jews had been pushed from the Egyptian border in out.

Other Arab neighbors were pushed back well beyond the original boundaries proposed by the United Nations in 1947. Jewish leaders had accepted this boundary. The Arabs had not. Ever since, the Arabs have been trying to go back to the 1947 U. N. proposals which they rejected.

But Premier Ben - Gurion's reply is: "We accept if the Arabs will return the 5,000 dead Israelis lost in that war.' Wars Since Goliath

None of the borders around Israel are marked by barbedwire entanglements or even stone markers. When you come to the edge of the iron curtain around the Soviet, you are halted by a mass of barbed wire. Along the Canadian - American boundary are white stone pillars.

But between Israel and the Arab countries there is nothing. An Arab girl can be tending her flocks on one side of the border and a young Jewish farmer can be driving a tractor a few yards away. They know where the border is because they live there. A stranger wouldn't.

This lack of fortifications makes border raids easy. Raiding parties forged back and forth across the border at least once a week while I was in The Negev, where the trouble started between Egypt and Israel, is one of the wildest, roughest areas in the Near East. Bedouins and their flocks roam over parched sand and hills that remind you of the table land of Arizona or the bad lands of South Dakota.

It is not a land worth fighting for, but war after war has been fought here nonetheless since David slew Goliath and since Samson slew the Philistines with the jawbone of an ass. It is now in this corner between Israel and Egypt also that Moses led the tribes of Israel across the Red Sea as far as the Hills of Moab More recently it is in this general area that the Egyptians have cut off Israeli ships from coming up to Elath at the head of the Red Sea. They have 1948, when the British gave up even prevented Israeli planes from flying over this area. Israeli ships were the first to be banned from the Suez Canal, carve up Palestine. They were even at a time when France and Britain still controlled its navigation.

Package Plan For Peace

The only thing that could have stopped a Near Eastern war was a package peace plan for both Suez and the entire area. Such a package plan was advocated by Ambassador Eric Johnston, Republican, and by would have pushed them back to Harry Truman, Democrat. Truman had worked out the plans before he left the White House. Johnston has been to the Near East several times in the past three years to try to put them across The State Department under John Foster Dulles, however, never had much confidence in these plans, and Dulles in his frantic zigzagging across the Atlantic over Suez either forgot or ignored them. Johnston argued that the Suez Canal would be out of date in 10 years, would have to require another canal or two more pipelines in order to carry enough oil for Western Europe. But you can't lay pipelines across hostile Arab nations. They cut them in two.

Johnston was also working on a Jordan River irrigation project similar to the Tennessee Valley Authoriyt to benefit Israel, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan.

Truman's ideas were more expansive. He wanted to reconstruct the irrigation system of the Tigris and the Euphrates which once made what is now Iraq one of the most prosperous countries in the world. He wanted to build a special canal from the Mediterranean to the Dead Sea to generate enough water power to make that country the industrial center of the Near
